

Risks in Decolonial Approaches

Build (and nurture)
Genuine Partnerships

Find representative community-based and -led organisations, and enter into a contractual relationship so you both learn and grow.

Applying a decolonial approach takes time and resources. Get this secured first so your work can be meaningful and relevant to your projects.

Build Cultures of Unlearning and Relearning

You and your organisation will need to unlearn previous ways of working to make room for better practices. Make sure you're ready and willing to do that.

Share your ideas widely - publicly if you can - including your goals, progress, and lessons learned. Help others do this work meaningfully.
